ELKS MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Impressive and Appropriate Ceremonies of the Order.

The annual memorial services of Flagstaff Lodge Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was held in their handsome hall on Sunday, December 1, 1901. It is incumbent upon the order to hold, on the first Sunday in December of each year, memorial services as outward testimonial of the true feeling of each one to the other. Though a brother may not answer to the roll call, having laid aside his earthly burdens, his memory is still cherished by his surviving brothers.

The hall was profusely decorated with flowers and evergreens, and under the electric lights the effect of the display was enhanced. The hall was crowded with invited friends and members of the order.

The programme was as follows:

1. Prelude—"Funeral March"—Chopin.....C. Nevison Roberts.
2. Ritual Work.....Members.
3. Sacred Selection, "I Know That my Redeemer Liveth"—Handel.....Orchestra.
4. Ritual Work.....Members.
5. Opening Ode.....Members.
6. Prayer..Chaplain Fred. S. Breen.
7. Quartet, "My Heavenly Home"—Misses Logie and Bury, .... Messrs. Reid and Raines.
8. Address.....J. E. Ruffin.
9. Sacred Selection, "Calvary,"—P. Rodney.....Orchestra.
10. Address.....Edward M. Doe.
11. Quartet, "Jerusalem the Golden," Misses Logie and Bury, .... Messrs. Reid and Raines.
12. Eulogy.....Fred. S. Breen.
13. Symphony Selection, "God of Nature," Beethoven..Orchestra
1. Ritual Work.....Members.
2. Doxology..Members and Audience
3. Benediction.....Rev. J. H. Henry.

Only one death has occurred in the lodge since the organization in July, 1899, that of John M. Dohoney, so well and favorably known here, and to whose memory a touching tribute was paid by Fred. S. Breen.

Dr. E. S. Miller and Clarence J. Spellmire were the committee who had charge of the memorial decorations and services, and the result of their labor was appreciated by the members of the order and those who attended the services.
